Schedule of Carmel Valley hearings

Valley Ford development -- Board of Supervisors hearing on June 22, 2 p.m. on appeal of Robert Bolman from conditions on zoning permit on twin movie theater. Supervisors' decision on master plan for Valley Ford scheduled June 29.

Dr. Joseph Noto's trailer park -- Board of Supervisors to hear appeal from decision of Planning Commission denying rezoning on Schulte Road for trailer park on June 22, 2 p.m.

Val Verde Dr. development -- Planning Commission hearing on subdivision map and use permit continued to June 30.

Redistricting -- Board of Supervisors will continue consideration of redistricting plans on July 13, 2 p.m.

Carmel Valley Fire Protection -- Panel discussion on fire insurance and fire protection for all of Carmel Valley, including Robles del Rio, scheduled for the July 8 general membership meeting of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association. Public informational meeting on issues involved in establishing local fire protection will be sponsored by Supervisor Willard Branson on July 9, with various County officials expected to participate. Organizational meeting to form County Service Area to provide fire protection for the mid-Valley planned for week of July 19. Times and places to be announced shortly.

Odello Ranch development -- Planning Commission hearing on rezoning continued to July 28.

Hacienda Carmel rezoning -- Planning Commission hearing continued to Sept. 29.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES TO BE INCREASED ON JULY 1

The subscription price of the Carmel Valley Outlook will be increased to $5.50 a year on July 1 to all subscribers in California, and to $7.00 a year for all subscribers outside of California.

It is only the second change in subscription rates for the Outlook during its 13 year history.

The price of single copies at 15c each remains unchanged.

The increase in subscription rates will help offset the steadily rising costs of newsprint and other supplies and expenses, plus a sizable boost in postage rates which went into effect last month.

All new subscriptions and renewals will continue to be accepted at the present rates until July 1.

What is a "pretty cat"
So many people
Call me that.

I'd rather be known
As a haughty cat,

Or what I sometimes am
A naughty cat.
Not just an ordinary
"Pretty Cat"
That's like saying
"A Mary Cat"
Which doesn't mean a thing.

Two films, "Childbirth for the Joy of It" and a Miller film on prepared childbirth, will be shown free of charge at the Monterey Public Library on Friday, June 18, at 8 p.m.

The films are presented by the Childbirth Education League, and a discussion session will follow the movies. Questions about the films or prenatal classes sponsored by the CEL may be directed to Mrs. Tobey Schwartz at 659-4541, or Mrs. Jennifer Ross at 372-5535.

xxx

Kenneth Lorenzen of Carmel Valley received a bachelor's degree in entomology on Saturday from the University of California at Davis. Susan L. Tescher of Carmel also graduated from UC Davis with a degree in sociology.

xxx

Supervisor Willard Branson has announced that plans and specifications have been approved for grading and improving alignment along a .6 mile stretch of Tularcitos Road southeast of Rana Creek.

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the clerk of the Board of Supervisors until 2 p.m. June 28. Construction will start shortly thereafter.

xxx

Chuck Vout, Harry Nord and Mike Kunkle will be among the Carmel Valley representatives playing in the 15th annual 20-30 Donkey Baseball game on Saturday, June 26, at the Pacific Grove Ballpark. The game will start at 7 p.m. against the Monterey police department.

The 20-30 Club is promising an evening of fun and laughter. Proceeds are donated to Little League.

xxx

An unusual travelogue entitled "The Legacy" by Edna Landau of St. Louis will be presented by the Padre Trails Camera Club tomorrow (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in Carmel High School's Brey Hall.

The essay was named the top travelogue in 1968 by the Photographic Society of America. It covers the western desert by both time (Cliff Dwellers, Navajos and Modern Man) and space (Apache Trail, Painted Desert, Canyon de Chelley, Grand Canyon, etc.)

The club contest for the evening will be nature subjects. Interested color photographers are invited to attend.

The Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club is sponsoring an exhibit of photographs of the California coastline by Studley and Dray Ristenpart until June 24 at the Friends of Photography Gallery at Sunset Center. The gallery is open 1 to 5 p.m. daily except Mondays, and there is ample free parking.

A widely praised slide program on the northern Monterey and Santa Cruz County coastline by Bert Muhly, former planning director of Santa Cruz County, will be the subject of a meeting on June 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the Music Hall at MPC.

The meeting is co-sponsored by the Ventana Chapter, the Audubon Society, the AAUW, and the League of Women Voters.

The color slides, taken over a period of many years, vividly portray the changes that have taken place along the coastline. A number of the slides are aerial photos taken at cliff height.

Congratulations are in order for these Carmel Valley graduates:

Adrianna M. Ricupero, who received a B.A. in Italian, and Dale W. Taylor, who was awarded a B.A. in psychology, at Stanford University's 80th commencement on Sunday.

Edward P. Foote, who was a graduate of the University of Virginia's College of Arts and Sciences earlier this month. At separate ceremonies for members of ROTC units, he was commissioned an Ensign in the Navy.

xxx

Supervisor Willard T. Branson, chairman of the Central Coast Regional Water Quality Control Board, will speak at the luncheon meeting of the Monterey Bay Republican Women's Club Tuesday, June 22nd, at 12 noon at the Outrigger Restaurant on Cannery Row.

He will speak on "Americanism Today" as a part of the Americanism Program sponsored by The California Federation of Republican Women to honor our flag and our American heritage. As a member of the Federation the Club annually celebrates Flag Day, June 14th, with a special program at their regular June meeting.

The public is invited to attend the luncheon. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Gerald J. Harr, 372-2630, before Sunday, June 20th.

Western artists Jack Swanson of Carmel Valley and Donald Teague of Carmel attended the second annual Seminar on Art of the American West held at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City last week.

The sixth annual Cowboy Artists of America exhibit preview and awards banquet followed the two days of seminar meetings. The festivities marked the opening of the Hall's summer-long CAA show, the nation's largest exhibit of outstanding Western art.

BOB WOOD REPORTS...

A REGULAR COLUMN BY BOB WOOD,
ASSEMBLYMAN - 34TH DISTRICT

You may, or may not, know that cities, including small towns that are incorporated, such as many of our communities in Monterey County, have very few ways of producing tax revenues to operate the necessities of their community. With statewide opposition against any increases in property taxes, the elected city officials know that any intent to increase city revenues by increasing property taxes would probably insure each individual councilman of only one thing -- that being, that their present term would probably be their last term in office.

Because of the need, and many times justified need, for increased revenues by the cities, a new bill has been introduced which you are probably going to hear a lot about in the next few months. The bill would allow the cities, if they so desired, to put a 5 percent tax on all drinks served over a bar. It would be permissive, allowing each individual city council to make their own decision. It would not be mandatory.

The city councilmen throughout the state have testified that they can't continue to provide the level of services they now provide unless the State Legislature gives them some latitude in raising new revenues. Mixed drinks are already subjected to a 5 percent sales and use tax, but almost all bars include it in the price of the drink rather than adding it to the total. Of course, the liquor industry will oppose this. However, many feel that if people are going to drink in taverns, they'll do it no matter what the price.

P.S. -- I thought most of our problems were here in Sacramento, but when I arrived home last week I found I also have a few problems in Greenfield. It seems our youngest, and several of her close friends, took a course in Biology this last school year. During most of the year they kept a cage of small white rats in their schoolroom studying their habits, etc. Last week, being the end of the school year, the instructor informed them that he would have to have the rats put to sleep as there wouldn't be anyone around during the summer vacation to take care of them. She and her friends couldn't stand the thought of having their pet white rats put to sleep, so guess who has a cage full of white rats in their garage.

P.S. No. 2 -- I hope when I report back to you in two weeks in this column that I won't have to report that we have been guilty of contributing to the population explosion.

Enuf for now ... BOB WOOD

How to eliminate garden pests without using poison

The latest edition of The Sanderling, the newsletter published by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, contains the following good advice for gardeners who would like to get rid of pests without resorting to poison.

Any concentration of favored plants gives the insects a field day, so intersperse resistant plants -- azalea, chives, daisy, marigold, et al.

Pick off caterpillars and Diabrotica by hand. Pick off leaves with leafminers or mildew, flowers at first sign of thrips. Trap earwigs in wet newspaper, but note: earwigs eat aphids.

Hose off aphids, leafhoppers, white flies, red spiders, and spittle (exposing the bug to predators) with a fine, sharp spray. Tree tanglefoot can stop ants and earwigs in shrubbery.

Birds eat large numbers of insects. Flickers relish ants -- ants that cultivate aphids and scale. Ladybugs eat scale and aphids; green lacewing larvae eat aphids, thrips, white flies. You can buy both of these predators.

Use sulfur for mites and mildew; lime-sulfur for scale. Some plant extracts are tried-and-true insecticides: Nicotine sulfate (highly toxic) or tobacco dust, also pyrethrins, for aphids, leafhoppers, mealybugs, scale, thrips, white flies.

Rotenone kills aphids, caterpillars, Diabrotica, spittlebugs, thrips -- and also fish, if you have a pool.

Ground broken for garden apartments in mid-Valley

Ground was broken Friday for the first phase of a garden apartment complex on Center Street and Dorris Drive, directly behind the Mid-Valley Shopping Center.

Initially the development, known as Mid-Valley Garden Apartments, will include 32 rental apartments, each with a private entrance and private patio or balcony. This phase is expected to be ready for occupancy late this year.

Future plans call for an additional 28 units, for a total of 60,

Each unit will have a panelled living room with exposed beam ceilings and a fireplace. In the initial phase of development there will be 20 two-bedroom, two-bathroom units and 12 with one bedroom and one bath.

The entire project will be extensively landscaped with native shrubs and trees. Parking will be in covered units not visible from the street.

Frantessa Contractors are in charge of the construction.

THIS IS AN ARCHITECT'S drawing of one four-unit building in a new garden apartment complex now under construction on Center Street at Dorris Drive, behind the Mid-Valley Shopping Center. The project calls for initial construction of 32 apartments, with 28 more to be added at a later date. Buildings will have rustic resawn wood exteriors and shake trimmed roofs. Balcony and stair railings will also be wood, finished in natural wood stains. Offstreet parking will not be seen from the street.

THE FINAL MEETING OF THE YEAR of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild was a luncheon meeting held at Robles Del Rio Lodge last Wednesday. Mrs. William Wood was in charge of luncheon arrangements, assisted by Mrs. George Sanford and Mrs. Loring Warner. Flower place cards, exquisitely hand painted by Mrs. Warner, marked the officers' places at the head table. The multi-hued floral centerpiece was of beautiful glads grown by Adele and Jimmy Hughes.

Following the luncheon there was a ceremony of installation of officers of the Guild for the year 1971-72, with Mrs. George Greer as installing officer. Outgoing officers (Mrs. Roy Kaminske, vice president, Mrs. Leonard Rhoades, treasurer, and Mrs. Norman Bundgard, director) were honored and presented with corsages as they were named by Mrs. Greer.

The following officers were then installed for the coming year and presented with corsages — Mrs. Clifford Bolgard, president; Mrs. S.N. Trevino, vice president; Mrs. Thomas McKiernon, recording secretary; Miss Esther Trevino, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Howard Vail, treasurer. Mrs. Paul Edwards and Mrs. Emil Hansen will serve as directors, but were unable to attend the luncheon.

Mrs. Bolgard announced the names of chairmen of standing committees for the coming year as follows: Mrs. Edward Chappell, Church Women United; Mrs. Roy Kaminske, devotions; Mrs. Kirk Gayman, historical; Mrs. Leon Amyx, kitchen; Mrs. Joseph Stekly, membership hostess; Mrs. Joseph Baudouin, missionary; Mrs. Emil Hansen, phoning; Mrs. William Powers, program; Mrs. S.N. Trevino, publicity; Mrs. Ed Mayfield, refreshments; Mrs. Norman Bundgard, holiday bazaar; Mrs. James Fitch, social club; Mrs. Donald Waylett, thrift shop; "Valley Fare" cookbook sales, Mrs. Thomas McKiernon and Mrs. Elbert Wade. Incidentally there are copies of this volume of favorite recipes collected from your neighbors ... be sure and order yours from one of the above mentioned chairmen.

HONORS FOR ANOTHER VALLEY YOUNG PERSON, Miss Cathy Freres, who flew last week to New York where she has been accepted for a month of detailed study of the Old Testament at the Laboratory School in Jewish Evangelism, affiliated with the Bible Christian Union. Students are required to spend 60 classroom hours per week plus extra curricular activities. Cathy, who is a student at Monterey Peninsula College, makes her home in Robles Del Rio with the William Baughs, and is employed at the Blue Sky Lodge. The ladies of the First Baptist Church on Schulte Road gave a salad luncheon farewell for Cathy and presented her with a money tree to assist with her eastern expenses.

Among the guests were Hixie Boone, Eloise Sturgill, Marge Gardner, Rose Di Rocco, Vi Holine, Allison Gardner, Dorothy Griffith, Fairy Bennett, Venietta Nielsen, Brine Vandembrouche, Janice Stanley, Helen Russell and Katherine McMichael. Sending gifts but unable to attend were Ruby Doerksen, Morween Di Mercurio, Jeanelle Kaminski, Barbara Hertzler and Fern Lindquist.

IN KENT, WASH., RECENTLY were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ijams where Jim and co-members of the Racing Team for Cook Racing Enterprises prepped their entry for the Seattle Grande Prix. For a post-race holiday, the Robles Del Rio couple and their children, Reagan and Garth, drove to Vancouver, B.C., ferried to Vancouver Island and drove to Miracle Beach where they camped, fished for salmon, clammed and rested in beautiful Northwest surroundings. Jim and Garth also caught their trout limits at Strathcona Providence Park. The Valley family relived the early days of our Canadian neighbors when enroute home they attended Victorian Days in Victoria celebrating Queen Victoria's birthday. Residents wearing old fashioned costumes, numerous regattas and exhibits gave the Ijams a capsuled glimpse of Canada before boarding a ferry to Port Angeles, Wash. and home.

WHEN THE FIDELITY CLUB adjourned their meeting last week, they did so until October 9 when hopefully vacation days will be behind traveling members who all made a solemn promise to return to Carmel Valley. To quote program chairman, Sterling Mummert, retiring president, George Sanford, yielded the gavel to incoming president Merle Johnson who wielded the gavel over a program presented by members themselves. Plans for the summer were discussed as were events from their past ... Mummert noted that "without exception, the lady of the house corrected the story of the couple's past!" Prospective members are invited to mark the October date on their calendars and join a group whose fun filled meetings and potluck dinners are a "don't miss" monthly event.

THERE WAS A RECENT FAMILY REUNION at the La Rancheria home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bolgard sparked by the arrival of Cliff's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hennrich who had driven across country from their home in St. Louis, Mo. The eastern guests enjoyed sight seeing, golfing and visiting with another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Doty who reside in Salinas and the Bolgard's son, Roger and family, who drove down from their home in Mountain View.

SOAP BOX DERBY RACE DATE CHANGED

Discovering that the Monterey Peninsula Soap Box Derby had been scheduled for the same weekend as the annual Salinas Rodeo, officials wish to announce a date change from July 18 to 25 at the Laguna Seca Track. A spokesman for the sponsors said, "Our sincere apologies to anyone that we have inconvenienced by changing the date; however, we feel that the change is for the overall convenience of everyone concerned. This also gives our drivers an additional week to prepare their cars for the event."

A revised list of race related events follows. On Saturday, July 24, at 10:30 a.m. under the sponsorship of the Chevrolet Corvette Club of the Monterey Peninsula, there will be a parade through downtown Monterey. After the parade, the cars and drivers will proceed to Laguna Seca Race Track for an open track practice. This practice will serve to acquaint the drivers with the track and their cars. Upon completion of this practice period, the cars will be impounded until the official race begins on July 25th.

A Victory Circle for the awarding of trophies to all the winners will be formed after the race. The champion of the event will receive from Chevrolet Motor Division, the beautiful trophy and a $500.00 Savings Bond. The Carmel Valley Lions will furnish an all-expense paid trip to Akron, Ohio, where he will compete in the All American Soap Box Derby. In this event in Akron, the winner will be representing the entire Monterey Peninsula.

It is not too late for all boys ages 11 through 15 to still get in on all of the fun. You still have enough time to build a Soap Box Derby Racer. Hurry down to Roller Chevrolet and sign up today. Girls are invited to participate, too, in the Queen's Contest which will run concurrently with the Race date change. The winner will be announced on June 20. Money collected by the girls must be turned into their local United California Bank by closing time on the 20th. There is still time for any girl between the ages of 11 and fifteen to enter the contest.

Signups are at your local United California Bank where they receive their Booster Buttons to sell. The girl selling the most buttons will be crowned queen of the Monterey Peninsula Soap Box Derby and receive a $25.00 Savings Bond, a 3 speed record player and a beautiful clothes ensemble to wear for the parade and race.

Any boy who has registered to drive in the Soap Box Derby will be a guest of SCRAMP at the Olympic Sprint Race on June 20. Boys are instructed to meet that morning at 8:00 at Roller Chevrolet where transportation will be furnished.

Win an interest-free loan.

Or cash prize.

During UCB's Interest-Free Loan Sweepstakes. To be eligible, all you have to do is fill out an entry blank at any one of our 235 offices. It's that simple -- no purchase required. If you apply for a personal loan for any amount up to $10,000 and it's approved, you may win that loan interest-free. Or, if you really don't need a loan right now, you may win a cash prize equivalent to the interest on an average UCB Personal Loan with a two-year maturity. And, since there'll be one winner for every 50 personal loans approved for 3 months, there's no limit on how many people can win.

Of course, you're probably saying to yourself, "How can I apply for a loan now? With money so tight, I'd do better to wait for the economy to pick up." Well, we'd like to point out that, strange as it probably seems, just the opposite is true. Interest rates are now lower than they've been in years. While prices continue to rise. Which means that, if you borrow now, you'll actually save money in the long run.

So if you've been waiting to apply for a loan, you'd be wise not to wait any longer. Come in and talk to us today. No matter what you're in the market for -- a new car, a boat, you name it -- you'll find we've got a loan to suit your needs. Everything from a vacation loan that lets you wait 3 months to start repaying to a property improvement loan that finances 100% of your expense and lets you take up to 10 years to repay.

In fact, now that you know all the facts, there really is no time like the present to borrow, is there? Because even if you don't win our sweepstakes, you don't lose.

The students from Carmel and Carmel Valley are:
In date processing: Robert J. Ford and Kim Lee Robinson of Carmel.

In dental assisting: Irene M. Cribbet of Carmel; Cindra Lou Gebhart of Carmel Valley.

In electronics: Guy S. McLean of Carmel.

In hotel-motor hotel-restaurant management: Andrea M. Azedo of Carmel.

In medical assisting: Kathy M. Ferrari and Barbara J. Talarico of Carmel.

Cypress swimmers place

10th at championships

A six member team, representing the Cypress Swim Club, swam their way into the top ten semi-finalists at the 1971 Jr. National AAU Outdoor Synchronized Swimming Team Championships last Saturday at the Mayfair Park Pool at Lakewood.

Members of the tenth-ranked team are Kathryn Blevens, Gerri Brandly, Suzanne Calley, Kathy Clark, Loria Shaw and Vicki Shaw.

The calibre of swimming at this meet was the highest on record for a Junior National championship, according to AAU officials present.

California continued its domination of the sport with only one non-California team qualifying for the finals, the Oregon City Synchronettes of Oregon, who placed seventh.

The Santa Clara Aquamaids, the Tustin Meraquas, and the Lakewood Athletic Club were the first, second and third place medalists in that order.

Next competition for the local Cypress Swim Club will be the 1971 Pacific Association Senior Championships at Walnut Creek on June 26-27, when the same team will be entered. In addition, Kathryn Blevens and Gerri Brandly will be entered in solo and duet competition at that meet.

20 camp sites allowed at Riverside Park... but owner will appeal for 47

BY PAT GRIFFITH

The Monterey County Planning Commission last week decided that Riverside Park at the end of Schulte Road is legally entitled to 10 overnight trailer sites and 10 tent sites without a use permit.

This may or may not be what the situation was when the campground first came under County zoning ordinances in 1957. But this was the only number the commission could agree upon in trying to establish the limits of the park's non-conforming use.

The issue came up because the park's present owner, Jesse West, needs approval from the County Building Department before he can obtain a state license to operate a public campground.

West asked the Planning Commission to establish the legal density on the 3.7 acre campground, and produced several letters to bolster his claim that there have always been at least 40 campsites on the property. West was hoping to get approval for 23 trailer sites and 24 tent sites.

But since no previous owner had ever applied for a state license, there is no official record of what was in existence at the time Riverside Park became a non-conforming use in 1957.

In the opinion of Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon, the camp had only 15 legal sites, based on the fact it had one toilet each for men and women, and state law provides a one toilet-to-15 campsites ratio.

"It has been the staff's position," Slimmon said, "that Mr. West has 15 legal sites, and that anything over 15 needs a use permit application."

But as anyone who has attended the Carmel Valley Airport hearings can testify, things tend to become muddled inside a retroactive crystal ball.

West's attorney, James Schwefel, jr., of Salinas, submitted a letter from Bernard Bisnett of Watsonville, who owned the property with his father in 1957 when it was operated as Bisnett's Trout Farm.

FORMER OWNER SPEAKS

Recalling that there were "at least 30 fireplaces and maybe more," Bisnett wrote that during busy seasons "there were times when we must have had at least 30 to 40 overnight campers. Some used tents, others used campers and camp trailers, and some even used station wagons."

Schwefel also presented a letter from Elvin Anderson of Monterey, who purchased the Bisnett Trout Farm in 1957. Anderson's letter said that "at that time the property was represented to us as a trout farm, picnic and overnight camping area with fire pits and space for forty campsites."

Still more letters from persons who had camped at Riverside Park were read to the commission, all indicating it was a pretty busy place in 1957.

An eye-witness account of the activity was provided by Luis Wolter, who told the commissioners he visited the campgrounds several times during 1956 to enjoy dinner with some Canadian girls, and clearly remembers that there were 35 to 40 occupied camp sites.

Then there was the other side.

Bill Brown, who lives on Meadows Road across from Riverside Park, said that the campground was completely flooded out in April 1958, and again in 1962 and 1969.

Since purchasing his home in 1961, Brown said that he had not seen more than 10 or 12 overnight trailers using the park at one time.

Another nearby resident, John Darch, wrote the commission that seven years ago, when he and his wife were investigating the possibility of purchasing the property, county officials told him there were only seven authorized campsites.

Mrs. Alice Burton, who purchased land across from the campground in 1951, said that fireplaces on the property "were built for people who caught fish and wanted to cook them for supper. It is inconceivable to me they could have 35 campsites with only one toilet."

She said that to the best of her memory there were no more than 10 campsites occupied at one time during the summer of 1957.

A COMEDY OF NUMBERS

When the public testimony ended, the commissioners began stabbing at numbers.

"I'm impressed by the documentary evidence in the letters," Commissioner Leo Herrlich began. "I understand about the ratio ... I suggest we approve some ratio of 15, maybe 45 ... I would be willing to grant him the benefit of the doubt."

No one took him up on that.

Commissioner Peter Cailotto of Salinas, who had visited the campground with Slimmon and Chairman Edward Marcucci, argued that "no one has been able to determine the number of sites ... a barbecue pit doesn't mean a campsite. Unless someone can give us a definition of campsite by square footage, you'll never resolve this thing."

Said Marcucci: "This whole thing is hearsay as far as I'm concerned."

Mrs. Minnie Prewitt of Soledad then said she'd "hate to make any decision on anything the way I felt 15 years ago. I'd hate to see more than 10 per acre. Just looking back to 1957 doesn't mean a thing to me. I'm looking ahead, not back."

"This seems to be a time of conjecture," Leo Stutzman observed. "I happen to think the entire property was abandoned by high water and flooding. I think we should start over at the use permit stage."

Marcucci demurred, saying that the flooding "was an act of God."

Deputy County Counsel Roy Anderson agreed, saying that while generally a use is considered abandoned if it has not been exercised for a period of six months, there could be extenuating circumstances why something was not used for 9 months or a year without the use being abandoned.

"It's obvious no one knows how many campsites have ever been there," Commissioner Vaughn Parsons said with some exasperation. "I don't think there's evidence of abandonment ... We have a range of guesses, and I think we'll have to err on the low side, and assume that the least optimistic person told the truth ... if I have to guess, I'll guess 30 and hang there."

"What was applicable in 1957 is no longer applicable in 1971," Cailotto protested.

"The staff's position from the beginning is there are 15 legal sites," Slimmon interjected, "and that anything more needs a use permit."

USE PERMIT NEEDED?

At that point Parsons threw up his hands and said he didn't think the commission could set any number without "establishing ourselves as granting a use permit with no use permit hearing."

Attorney Schwefel returned to the microphone to protest that "the zoning ordinance requires actual historical use, not a presumption based on toilets."

When Schwefel repeated the statements by Anderson and Bisnett that there were "30 to 40 campsites" in existence in 1957, Cailotto asked: "In your opinion, what was he (Bisnett) talking about?"

"Areas allocated sufficient for a trailer or tent with a fireplace," Schwefel replied.

"I don't think you could get 40 units in there," Cailotto countered.

And so it went.

Two motions to establish 30 overnight camp sites were voted down.

Marcucci suggested that someone make a motion for 25 or 23 sites, but no one did.

Then Stutzman declared that the "staff figure (15) is as good a position as I can come up with," but his motion was defeated on a 3-3 tie, with Marcucci, Parsons and Herrlich in opposition.

"I think it should be 15 to 25," Marcucci observed.

Parsons tried out the number 30 again, and lost again.

Cailotto moved for 10 trailersites and 30 tent sites. That didn't go.

It was then that Stutzman came up with what he called a "pretty generous" figure and moved for approval of 10 trailer sites and 10 tent sites.

This passed 5 to 1 on a roll call vote, with Parsons the only one opposed.

West, whose bitter disappointment was audible, said later he could not possibly earn a living under such restrictions. His attorney said they will "definitely" appeal to the Board of Supervisors.

Carmel school tax holds up at $2.72 with a great big IF

BY PAT GRIFFITH

The Carmel school board last week adopted a tentative budget of $4,192,902 for the 1971-72 school year, the first step in a lengthy procedure which will result in approval of a final budget in August.

The budget package includes a 5 percent pay raise for teachers and holds the tax rate at its present level of $2.72 -- with one very big if.

IF the State legislature does not pass a bill for a statewide school property tax of $3.75, the tax rate will hold firm, and the increase of $54,865 over this year's budget will be drawn from undistributed reserve funds.

But if a statewide tax is passed, the whole budget will be meaningless.

The purpose of the statewide school tax is to funnel money from wealthier areas in the state into school districts with pressing financial needs, in an attempt to equalize educational opportunities for all children in California.

(Legislation to establish a $3.75 school property tax is now pending in Sacramento. If approved, it would benefit over 90 percent of the school children in the State, but would result in a net loss to the Carmel school district of over $1 million.)

Putting this financial nightmare aside, the school district is basing its budget request for next year on an anticipated 3 percent increase in local assessed valuation and a 1 percent decrease on the utility rolls.

Figures are based on an estimated average daily attendance of 3,192 students, and continuation of the present state formula which provides $125 a year for every student in a "basic aid" district.

The budget is also based on the assumption that the state will continue to support programs for driver training, transportation (part of the cost), the mentally gifted, the physically handicapped and educationally handicapped.

If the budget is adopted as planned, the $2.72 tax rate will be 18 cents below the maximum authorized by permissive overrides.

The board will meet July 14 to consider adoption of the "publication budget". Final budget approval will come after a public hearing during the first week in August.

SALARIES UP 5 PERCENT

The board's recommendation of a 5 percent pay raise for teachers will be presented to the certificated Employees Council.

Several weeks ago teachers had requested a cost of living increase in the salary schedule, and indicated this could be based on the district maintaining its present level of financing.

The pay raise prompted a protest from Dan Daly of Carmel, a retired corporation lawyer and member of the Monterey Peninsula Taxpayers Association.

"Let's talk about tax dollars," Daly said. "If my (property) assessment goes up, I pay more dollars even if the rate is the same."

His viewpoint was supported by Carvel Baldwin, another Carmel resident and member of the MPTPA.

"There are thousands of elderly people in the Carmel Unified School District living on fixed incomes," Baldwin said. "I'd like to see someone hold the line on the inflation that is eating us up ... I'll speak for myself. I don't get any increase for anything I do."

Trustee Steven Sassoon sympathized, calling the property tax the "most archaic means possible" to finance schools.

"Here you penalize people on a fixed income," Sassoon said. "I think if it were based on income, that would be better."

FIRE INSURANCE

On still another financial matter, the board accepted the bid of the George Tomlinson Agency of Carmel for fire insurance for the coming school year.

The premium will be $15,870 with a $5000 deductible clause.

Tomlinson, who was sitting in the audience, told the board that the bid is for one year, "predicted on a three-year contract."

The school district had sent out bid forms to 15 insurance agents as far away as San Francisco and Oakland, but only four completed bids were received. The Tomlinson bid was the lowest at the $5000 deductible level.

Another long-standing problem was resolved when the board voted to award bids for the purchase of two 79-passenger school buses and one 66-passenger bus. The combined cost, less a $750 trade-in on one old bus, will be $71,009.46.

Sassoon voted against the purchase, saying that "the number of buses we're adding is increasing much more than our enrollment. I don't think we have studied our transportation enough to see where we can cut costs or eliminate unnecessary field trips."

Superintendent of Schools Harris Taylor said that the district is actually adding only one bus to its fleet, which now numbers 17. One 1955 55-passenger bus will be traded in, and a second outdated small bus will be converted into a food truck.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Elaine Kunihiro, second grade teacher at Tularcitos School, and Wallace P. Judd, elementary learning disabilities teacher. Mrs. Kunihiro is expecting a child, and Judd is leaving to work on a program for Field Educational Enterprises in San Francisco.

GETTING A HEAD START on some good reading for summer vacation are Vicki Harber, Judy Wright, Kellye Sullivan and Julie Taguchi, while Mrs. Warren Higby shelves books in the children's section of the Carmel Valley branch of the Monterey County Library. A full program of summer reading activities is planned by librarian Betty Shields, who is encouraging children to drop by on their way to the swimming pool or on their way home, wet towels and all.

Summer reading club for children at Valley library

It seems impossible that summertime is here again. Surely it was just a few weeks ago that the children were starting back to school! However, since reliable information has it that summer vacation is starting, the library is happy to welcome back its summer reading club members.

This year the name of the game is "Club 22". This will include the third grade (just completed) through the sixth. Registrations will start on the twenty first. Everyone will be welcome even if a wet bathing suit comes too!

The library is delighted to report that our Mrs. Huntington will be coming to us again for story hours for the younger children. This group will include three year olds through the second grade. Starting on Wednesday the twenty third at 10:30, the program will continue through the summer.

The library is open every day, Monday through Friday. The hours are nine to twelve, and one to five with the exception of Thursday when the library opens at twelve and is open that evening from six to eight. When the library is closed, books may be returned in the yellow book drop box by the driveway entrance to the bank.

Happy summer reading, friends!

Summer Swimming

ADULT SWIM LESSONS AT CARMEL HIGH SCHOOL POOL

Adult swim lessons will be offered at the Carmel High School Pool Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock starting on Tuesday, June 22nd. Adults wishing to improve their swim strokes are welcome to register at the pool office at lesson time or call 624-2168. Two qualified instructors will be available and a $4.00 registration fee is required; classes may go four to six weeks, depending upon interest.

SENIOR LIFE SAVING CLASS AT VALLEY POOL

Anyone interested in joining an evening Senior Life Saving Class may call the Carmel Recreation Office - 624-3342. Classes will be held at the Carmel Valley Pool Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock. This Red Cross Senior Life Saving course instructs individuals in personal swim strokes, water safety skills and life saving techniques. The minimum age is 15 years and the course is recommended for parents who have private swimming pools and children of swimming age. A $4.00 registration fee is required and classes will start when a total of 15 registrants is received.

EVENING FAMILY SWIM

Evening Family Swim will begin the week of June 21st at the Carmel High School Pool on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock and at the Carmel Valley Pool on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:00 to 8:00 o'clock. Single admissions at both pools are 35c for students and 65c for adults. Season tickets will be available at both pools at $10.00 for a family, $7.50 for adults and $5.00 for students and may be used at either pool.

From now on it's "Escuela de los Ninos"

Kindergarteners put it all together for dedication of their building

WHEEEE! Down she goes, while in the background a boy wriggles his way up a knotted rope to reach the popular "fort" in the primary playground.

"ESCUELA DE LOS NINOS" is the name the kindergarteners selected for their building, in line with a new policy at Tularcitos School whereby every classroom next year will have a Spanish name. Josefina Roman and Ivans Collas proudly display the new name, which Supt. of Schools Harris Taylor and principal Tom Williams, left, then fastened to a multi-colored wooden sign the class had made for the occasion. At right is Mrs. Barbara Wilson, one of the kindergarten teachers.

A STURDY MONTEREY PINE is lowered into the ground by Manny Mancebo. Four French and Erik Dolman watch carefully to be sure all goes well.

KINDERGARTENERS at Tularcitos School spent days preparing for this moment last Friday, when they planted a Monterey pine tree and buried a time capsule in a simple ceremony that dedicated the primary building. The names of all the kindergarteners were included in the time capsule, along with the words of a song and poem they presented. The building and tree were blessed by the Rev. James Brock, a member of the Carmel school board.

A CHERUBIC VISITOR to the dedication ceremony finds she's the center of attention in the classroom, where several "little mothers" assist her with crayons.

Photos by George T.C. Smith

REFRESHMENTS -- open faced parsley or cheese and bacon sandwiches -- are served after the dedication ceremony. Children churned the butter themselves, grew the parsley in their kindergarten garden, made the sandwiches and served them.

By JUDITH A. EISNER

On Saturday we drove over the Los Laureles Grade and turned onto Route 68 heading toward Salinas. We found ourselves following a green Porsche and blinking in amazement. For sitting on a wooden perch wedged into the back of the little car was a large green parrot contentedly eating sunflower seeds out of a seed cup.

Now, one doesn't see parrots riding in Porsches every day, and this unusual sight got us to thinking about the approach of summer vacation travels and the annual problem of what to do with one's pets.

If your family is planning to go away for a prolonged vacation this year, provision must be made for the family pet or pets.

There are four solutions to choose from: to board the pet in a reputable boarding kennel or pet hospital; to have a friend or neighbor take them in; to get an in-house pet sitter to care for them; or to take them along.

Some people who have had dogs and cats for many years make it a practice to board the pet at least once a year from a very young age to accustom it to different surroundings. When the time comes for vacation each year, the dog or cat goes willingly to its temporary home and patiently awaits its master's return.

If you are boarding a young animal who has never been lodged in strange surroundings, it can be an upsetting experience. No matter how earnestly you reassure the animal that you will be back, it really cannot understand. When you leave and the cage door slams shut, every normal dog or cat feels a sense of total abandonment and uncontrollable panic.

For that reason, we feel that if you must board your pet in a strange kennel, you should investigate it thoroughly well in advance. You must be certain that the human contacts your pet will have in your absence are as comforting, loving and understanding as possible.

On the physical side, you must also be assured that your pet will be well fed, warmly and cleanly housed and safely cared for until your return.

Many veterinarians will board dogs and cats who are regular clients. Because the vet and his staff know your pet personally and are familiar with his physical condition, this is often the best choice. But don't expect to suddenly drop in to leave an animal for two weeks without advance notice. You should make a reservation well in advance of your departure date.

Private boarding kennels are often very satisfactory hotels for pets. But as the pet owner—and the recipient of a considerable boarding bill—you are entitled to inspect the premises before consigning your pet there. Many boarding kennels are scrupulously clean and genuinely interested in their charges' welfare. Others are not.

When you inspect a boarding kennel, be on the alert for signs of haphazard cage and run cleaning, smells and flies. Cages and runs should be thoroughly disinfected and hosed down twice a day.

Dogs and cats should have ample space, both indoors and out (in the form of sleeping and exercise quarters) to move about freely, and should have adequate protection from sun, wind, cold and rain.

The animals should look clean, well-fed and healthy. There should be fresh water within easy reach of all animals, and each should have its own separate kennel and run, unless two pets from one family are boarded together at the owner's request.

If you see droopy, listless animals housed in less-than-clean quarters, find dirty food pans, bad odors and lots of flies, this is no place for your pet.

Conscientious boarding kennel operators will insist that you provide proof of your pet's inoculation against feline or canine distemper and, for dogs, of current rabies vaccination. Such demands are far from unreasonable; they are made to safeguard your pet as well as others.

When you decide on a boarding place, you will want to prepare a typewritten list of your pet's diet, giving specific quantities and brand names and any supplements. Indicate the number of feedings per day.

If you have an address where you can be reached while you are away, include it. Be sure to list the name and phone number of your veterinarian to be called in case of emergency.

Most kennels supply the popular brands of dog and cat food and can easily accommodate the average pet. If your pet eats special foods that require extra preparation and expense, you will have to pay for it.

Check in advance whether you will be permitted to bring along the animal's bed and toys. Familiar objects can be a great comfort to the pet in your absence, and most kennel operators are understanding about such things.

If you have investigated the kennel beforehand and are pleased by what you have seen and by the attitude of the owner, you can drop off your pet and go off to your vacation with the assurance that everything humanly possible will be done to make your pet happy and keep him healthy in your absence.

Varied Carmel Valley applications confront planners

Ed Haber's application for a use permit to operate a public stable and sell feed on 28 acres he purchased from the S.F.B. Morse Ranch has been continued to July 14 by Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon.

In his application, Haber says he hopes to train, board and pasture 50 horses on the property.

There will be a mixed bag of Carmel Valley applications under consideration at the June 30 meeting of the Planning Commission.

Developer Thomas Gamboa will start things off at 9:15 a.m. with a tentative subdivision map and application for a use permit to build his 45 unit Casas de Carmel on Val Verde Drive.

Monterey Peninsula Associations will present a subdivision map and application for rezoning for Carmel Knolls No. 4 at 10 a.m.

A preliminary subdivision map for Carmel Rancho Phase No. 3, a 13.2 acre commercial development to the south of Monte Mark along Carmel Rancho Drive, will be discussed at 10:30 a.m.

Also on the agenda are a request for design approval of a sign for the Hatchcover restaurant, a PG&E application for a use permit for a storage yard in the Village, and two applications for use permits by the California-American Water Company for temporary facilities in Carmel Views.

Public meeting planned on Mid-Valley fire protection

Supervisor Willard Branson said last week he hopes to arrange a public meeting on fire protection for the mid-Valley on Friday, July 9.

Branson said the meeting will be held at Carmel Middle School or Carmel High School if the date is agreeable to everyone concerned.

He plans to invite representatives from the County Counsel's office, the road department, the State Division of Forestry, the Carmel Highlands and Carmel Valley Fire Districts, County Service Areas 42 and 43 and the Mid-Carmel Valley Property Owners Association.

This will be one of three major meetings scheduled for July to inform residents about the issues involved in fire protection and to help spur community action to resolve the problem.

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association will present a panel of speakers at a general membership meeting on July 8 to discuss fire protection and fire insurance relating to all parts of the Valley.

A citizens' committee that is recommending formation of a

County Service Area to provide fire protection for the mid-Valley is planning to call a major public meeting about July 19 to organize a petition drive among property owners in the mid-Valley.

Time and places of all these meetings will be announced in the Outlook.

Redistricting struggle continues at Salinas

Judging from the turnout at a special hearing called last Wednesday by the Board of Supervisors, nobody cares much how Monterey County is redistricted except the city fathers of Monterey and Salinas and their respective chambers of commerce.

The supervisors met in a hearing room at the Courthouse to get public reaction and "input", as the saying goes, to an assortment of redistricting proposals which have generated some heated exchanges at the board level in the past several months. Only one man in addition to the official city spokesmen appeared to express his opinion.

"I am discouraged to see we don't have more people here willing to put in some input into redrawing the lines," Supervisor Willard Branson said. "We can't be all things to all people ..."

"I'm frankly amazed at the slight amount of interest one way or the other," agreed Supervisor Loren Smith of Seaside. "I've yet to receive my first phone call one way or the other."

Discussion focused on a redistricting plan proposed by Supervisor Warren Church, which the board has accepted "in concept" 3-2 over the strong objections of Branson and Supervisor Arthur Atteridge of Salinas.

The Church plan would split Salinas between three supervisors (Church, Atteridge and Tavernetti), shift the bulk of Monterey from Branson's fifth district into Smith's fourth district, and keep Carmel Valley intact in the fifth district as far east as Camp Stefani.

This plan would put the Valley east of Camp Stefani, including Cachagua, and areas off of Highway 68 such as Toro Park, Corral de Tierra and San Benancio Canyon into the fourth district, which has the bulk of its population in Seaside.

SALINAS UNHAPPY

Salinas officials are unhappy at the thought of their southern industrial area being taken over by the vast rural-agricultural third district, and would like to see lines shifted so that their interests continue to be represented by just two supervisors, Church and Atteridge.

Monterey officials, upset over the proposed shift into the fourth district, are now pressing for redistricting lines that would give coastal areas of Monterey County three supervisors, since three-fifths of the county's population is located along the coast and areas of immediate coastal influence.

And the one man with an opinion, Walter Markham, was adamant that Toro Park and Corral de Tierra properly belong either with the Salinas or South County districts, or even, possibly with Carmel Valley. But not, under any circumstances, with urbanized Seaside.

Branson renewed one of his earlier proposals, which has been given little attention at the board, which calls for starting at the San Luis Obispo County line and redistricting northward in a clockwise fashion. Under this concept, as soon as an area containing approximately 50,000 people was marked off, a new district would begin.

"This would be the most technically pure program," Branson said, "with no flavor of gerrymandering."

However, Branson added, this plan could produce "several incompatibilities" in terms of "community of interest".

After a two-hour discussion, supervisors agreed to postpone the hearing on redistricting that had been set for yesterday, and reconsider the whole thing on July 13 at 2 p.m.

In the meantime, the concerned representatives of Monterey and Salinas plan to meet to see if they can come up with a plan they could both support. If they do, there will be strong pressure on the supervisors to modify the Church plan to a significant degree.

BURT TALCOTT SPEAKS

Congressman discusses national problems with Valley businessmen

BY PAT GRIFFITH

If you're expecting to see a big decrease in defense spending after the end of the Vietnam war, with a resulting drop in federal taxes, forget it.

This was one bit of advice from Congressman Burt Talcott, of Salinas, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, during a brief visit to Carmel Valley Saturday morning.

"There's not going to be a big peace bonus," the congressman told members of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce.

"We've permitted the Russians to exceed us in missiles and submarines ... There has been a lot of neglect in the defense field, and we face the need for modernization and general strengthening of our forces."

Talcott noted that the budget for the space program has been sharply reduced, and that all programs are facing continual re-evaluation in terms of need and priority.

"The principal purpose of the nation is defense," he said. "I think we should continue with research and development in space, but at a paced rate."

"We're spending more money on so-called human things now. I just can't see where there'll be much reduction in taxes."

"And I'm sorry," he added, "to have to give you such a dismal report."

Talcott's comments came during a free-wheeling question and answer session at Rancho Canada Golf Club, where the veteran Republican congressman shared coffee and breakfast rolls with leaders of the Valley's business community.

In informal opening remarks, Talcott described himself as an "ardent conservationist" confronted with the constant need to balance the conflicting interests within his district.

He said one problem he faces is the "growing discontent of taxpayers ... who have been very patient and sympathetic."

Taxpayers would benefit in the long-run, he said, from the Nixon administration's welfare reform proposal, which includes a basic family assistance plan. While this proposal will cost more initially, Talcott said, in the long run it should cut costs because of the incentives it offers to get off the welfare rolls.

Talcott also plugged for revenue sharing and government re-organization as two other changes which could benefit the local taxpayer.

CONCERN ABOUT HOUSING

Talcott was asked by realtor Nancy Strathmeyer why the housing industry has to be the "whipping boy" in the administration's fight against inflation.

"Obviously that's a very complicated question," he replied.

"We're going to have three or four times as many housing starts this year as last. Some of it is very expensive, it's true. But I think the administration is trying to put a lot of emphasis on housing."

Talcott said that interest rates on home mortgages have dropped 2½ percent in the last two years, and blamed labor costs for rising "far in excess of productivity."

Noting that much of the steel, electronic and textile industries have relocated in Japan, he commented that "if the product were more portable, I'm convinced much of our housing would be made in Japan also."

He added he would like to see mobile homes financed in the same way that conventional homes are, with the expectation that they would have more substantial construction.

The need for housing in Monterey County was raised again by Mrs. Strathmeyer who said that two-thirds of those needing homes are white, retired persons scattered through communities throughout the county.

"We've had public housing in Salinas for a long time," Talcott responded. "My colleagues in the House tell me we get more than our share of loans in Monterey County, and I'm inclined to agree with them, although I don't like to say so."

"I think where we locate housing is important," he continued. "We have some agricultural land that has to be protected ... a lot of this has to be solved locally."

Talcott said there was little the government could do about land values as such, but that if income taxes were shared directly with local governments, this would ease the pressure on property taxes.

(Commenting further on this in an interview a short while later, Talcott said he feels the federal government has reached the point where it is spending "the maximum amount of money" it should for housing and related mortgage and insurance programs, and that "the rest will have to be left to private industry.")

Still another question related to housing came from relator Skip Marquard, who said developers "hope the government can help in the form of tax relief ... such as improved depreciation schedules, investment credits and so forth, rather than direct financial aid."

"There's certainly lots of considerations of tax credits. I'm not as familiar with those as I ought to be," Talcott answered.

He said that what one person considers a "tax credit" looks like a "loophole" to another, "and Nader's Raiders and those kinds of people will be on your back."

Because of such criticism, Talcott said, "there's some hesitation to do the things you're trying to accomplish in an

Should artichokes be preserved as a vanishing national species?

Congressman Burt Talcott said Saturday he considers artichokes to be a "vanishing species" which merit federal protection.

But as far as the Odello ranch is concerned, he feels that "a lot more needs to be learned about all the interests concerned" before any governmental body contributes to the purchase of the property for continued artichoke farming or open space.

Talcott's comments came in an interview following an informal breakfast meeting with members of the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce.

"Artichoke fields have always been a prominent target for development," the Congressman commented, "because they're located on flat lands, which are easier to develop than hillsides, and are in areas with a pleasant climate."

At this point in history, he said, the existing fields are so "vulnerable" to development that the artichoke should be recognized as a vanishing national species.

Talcott said that a few years ago he explored the possibility of federal funds or foundations buying some of the artichoke land near Castroville. But nothing came of it, he said, "because this is a new concept ... particularly in the East, where many people don't even know what an artichoke plant looks like."

Noting that 95 percent of the nation's artichokes come from his Congressional District, Talcott said he would "like to preserve some of it. We may not be able to preserve the most valuable part, and we may have to get some of the moderate land instead, but I do think we should preserve some of it."

NO FEDERAL FUNDS

Talcott said he is not aware of any federal funds that could be used now to help purchase the Odello property. And even if funds were available, he said, he would be reluctant to see them committed until much more is known about all the conflicting interests at stake.

"There are people who want the land developed for economic reasons, and those who don't want it developed possibly so that their own properties will increase in value because of the open space. And maybe they hope to develop some of their own land in the future ...

"There are a variety of interests that should be sorted out. 'I don't think the federal government or state or cities should commit themselves now. A lot more needs to be learned about the interests concerned.'"

Talcott said he is trying to support the artichoke industry by restricting artichoke imports. He said farmers are also benefitting from the Williamson Act passed by the state which provides that agricultural lands may be taxed at a lower rate.

"Everybody always feels that other people's property should not be developed," Talcott commented.

"I think we need public seashores and private seashores, public valleys and private valleys, public mountain tops and private mountain tops. But these things take a good deal of time to develop."

VIEWS ON POLLUTION

On another topic, Talcott said that the cost of water conservation and water reclamation should be a local, rather than federal, responsibility.

"Water needs are so variable throughout the country that I don't think the federal government should become involved," Talcott said. "I think the expense involved should be borne by the state and local communities."

Asked about the problem of sewage flowing into the ocean or other locations of broad public concern, Talcott said that "people have an individual responsibility not to pollute a neighbor."

"I don't even think someone should have a right to smoke in an elevator, for instance," he explained. "And certainly dumping sewage into the ocean is far more offensive than smoking."

Talcott said he can't think of "anything that's more personal than the disposal of personal garbage."

He added that he has long been interested in water conservation and was one of the original promoters of the San Antonio-Nacimiento Dam.

indirect way ... Perhaps it is better to help in such a way that everyone can see what is going on, with it out in the open, so that it's not being abused by some."

CAMP ROBERTS DEVELOPMENT?

In response to a question about future use of military installations, Talcott said a study has been made of bases across the nation.

"Many grew up like Topsy to meet wartime situations that don't fit now that we're moving to peacetime. But the study found we can't make a lot of changes because of the tremendous investment."

While vowing to resist any change in the status of Fort Ord, Talcott said he would like to see Camp Roberts gradually "dis-established" and developed as a planned community.

He termed it an ideal location for a new city because it is midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles, has a good climate and lots of available water, has a good labor market potential and could use the services of the Paso Robles airport.

He suggested that the government could release the land in increments to a developer or consortium of developers, to ease the problem of financing a vast area.

In contrast, he said that if Fort Ord were dis-established and open up for development "you'd have the worst slum between Monterey and Salinas."

WOULD OUTLAW STRIKES

In response to another question, Talcott said he thinks "big labor is oppressive now," and that he will continue to press for legislation to outlaw the strike as a tool in collective bargaining.

"The strike is an outmoded, uncivilized, barbaric way of settling disputes between people," he declared. "How can anyone expect us to eliminate wars without being able to eliminate strikes and secondary boycotts? (They) always lead to property damage, threats, terror, loss of income, higher prices, loss of profits ...

"These things are outrageous ... they're things we shouldn't stand for."

As a "viable alternative" he suggested a system of mandatory arbitration in which labor and management would each have one representative on a five-man board of arbitration.

Under this plan, Talcott explained, the board would have 30 days in which to reach agreement. If a settlement were not announced in that time, then the best offers made by each side would be publically announced, and five additional days given to negotiation under the weight of public opinion.

If still no agreement were reached, Talcott continued, the arbitration board would then be empowered to pick the last offer of one side or the other, but not a compromise in between.

Talcott said this last provision would end the current practice of "negotiating from extremities."

Asserting that this plan would be fair to everyone, Talcott added: "I don't expect my proposal to be accepted right away, but I do expect to see the day that strikes are outlawed."

On other issues, Talcott said he thinks there should be a way to limit all campaign spending, not just the money spent for television.

He said he would favor legislation requiring candidates to disclose the source of all campaign funds and how the money was spent.

He said he thinks it would be unfair to require television stations to give free time to political candidates unless radio stations and newspapers were also required to provide free exposure.

On the other hand, he said he is opposed to requiring elected public officials to reveal the sources and amounts of income they receive while in office, because this would drive many competent men away from public life.

He said public interests are now protected because members of the House must disclose income above $5000 from a single outside source. If financial statements were required, he continued, he would like to see newspapers publish the sources of their income as well.

"I think the disclosure of a person's financial interests is greatly overrated."

COMMON CAUSE

Talcott also found himself discussing Common Cause, the vast citizens' lobby formed by John Gardner.

"I don't know what to think," he said in reply to a question about the group's effectiveness.

"It's very antagonistic towards the administration. I think the administration is making more reforms that Common Cause ever thought of. It's very political ..."

Talcott said he thinks Common Cause espouses some "good ideas" with which he can agree, but he didn't enumerate any.

"On the seniority system they didn't know what they were talking about," he continued. "They take popular causes and popular causes are not always right."

Talcott said he doesn't know of any lobby in Washington that has "more money pouring in," and predicted that the group's effectiveness will "dwindle" in the future.

"I think I can do better than Common Cause can do."

He drew a hearty laugh when he added: "I have to be careful what I say. John Gardner is a popular person around here, and he does have relatives living in Carmel Valley."

(This was a reference to Lou Gardner, John Gardner's brother, who owns the Blue Sky Lodge.)

Talcott responded to questions for over an hour, commenting at one point that he spoke "with more candor than the press is accustomed to hearing." He later added that he considers it "the most difficult thing in the world" for an elected official to "make himself open for questions," but that he feels such exchanges are important in order for constituents to know his views.

Talcott returned to Washington yesterday morning, accompanied by 30 high school students from his district who will spend eight days touring the nation's capital and surrounding areas of historical interest.

HANS A. WIEGAND

Wiegand named general manager of Quail Lodge

Edgar H. Haber, president of the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and Quail Lodge, has announced the appointment of Hans A. Wiegand to the position of general manager of Quail Lodge.

Wiegand has an extensive background in the hotel business, having been sales manager for the Castellana Hilton in Madrid and sales and convention manager for the Hotel Plaza in New York. For six years he was front office manager for the 1000-room Essex House in New York. Most recently he held the same position at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco.

Joseph "Larry" Huddleson will continue as the resident manager of Quail Lodge.

Additional managerial personnel has become necessary with the 1½ million dollar expansion program now under way at Quail Lodge, which is now one of only two hotels in Northern California to have 3A's highest rating, "Outstanding."

MARY ANN VOZNAK

Funeral services have been held in Hazel Crest, Ill., for Mrs. Mary Ann Voznak of Carmel Valley, who died in a hospital there June 6 following a short illness.

Mrs. Voznak, who was 80, made her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Meyer of Country Club Drive.

Mrs. Voznak was born in New York on March 20, 1891. A member of the Royal Neighbors of America, she lived in Chicago until moving to California three years ago.

Her husband, Joseph, died in 1966, and a son, George, in 1951.

In addition to her daughter, Veronica Meyer, she is survived by a son, Edward Voznak of Hazel Crest; three sisters and seven grandchildren.

Interment was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Worth, Ill.

School board debates

what is or isn't American history

Should or shouldn't Carmel high school students be required to take a course that is specifically called "United States history?"

Or is American history by any other name, such as "Minority Cultures" or "Modern U.S. History", still basic American history?

This posed something of a dilemma for members of the Carmel school board last week after they heard a presentation of the high school's social studies program by teacher Peter Lyon.

Debate was touched off when Lyon said that the department would continue this year's policy of allowing students to take alternative courses to the one officially called "U.S. History" in order to fulfill the state requirement for U.S. history.

The alternative courses this year have been "Revolutionary Change in Modern America" -- a title and subject which alarmed some parents in the community -- and "Minority Cultures".

Next year, Lyon said, the department will drop "Revolutionary Change" in favor of a course on "Modern American History," but the course on minority cultures will remain basically the same.

"How can you cover U.S. history with 'Revolutionary Changes and Minority Cultures?' asked trustee Steven Sassoon.

"It was offered that way to give students an alternative," Lyon said. "We weren't trying to mislead anybody. We're trying to give students an alternative to straight U.S. history and .. as far as a student coming to understand the history of our own country, (these courses) cover that."

Student board member Doug McCall said that when he took a U.S. history course, it was primarily a list of names and dates with little of real interest to students.

"There are a million ways to teach U.S. history that makes it interesting," Sassoon replied. "Your problem was with the teacher, not the subject."

Robert Oross of Carmel Valley asked Lyon if "next year we can expect the same sort of games and experiments, such as walking to the beach blindfolded, sitting in circles and touching ..."

Lyon said that teaching methods would be left to the judgment of individual teachers.

HEATED EXCHANGE

At that point Oross and Superintendent of Schools Harris Taylor got into a heated exchange over an incident that occurred some weeks ago, when Oross tape recorded a class on "Revolutionary Change" without first obtaining permission from the principal or teacher. Subsequently Taylor had advised him to destroy the tape because he appeared to have been in violation of a state law prohibiting anyone from taking concealed recording devices into a classroom.

"When I sit in the 'Revolutionary Change' class and get a call from the superintendent to destroy a tape I wonder why," Oross said. "These are the things I question. When I sit in class as a citizen and get these complaints I wonder why."

Taylor responded: "You can tape any class if you inform the teacher and principal ... it's a moot point what concealment is."

When the angry exchange subsided, Lyon returned to an explanation of the social studies program.

"My own feelings," he told the board, "is that the entire social studies curriculum should be made elective, but with certain patterns of courses to take."

"There's no question but that students should be familiar with their country and its patterns ... Students should also have some understanding of a culture not their own. We're very deficient in Oriental history. Some kinds of non-Western studies are profitable."

In place of specific course requirements, Lyon explained, a student will be given a choice within a rather limited framework. He said he also hopes there will be an expansion of interdepartmental studies.

Speaking from the audience, incoming board member Dr. Charles Snorf said he agreed with Sassoon's concern about the teaching of U.S. history as such.

"The intent is to familiarize the student with our history and culture," Lyon replied. "There are different ways to do this. Whether one can learn more by exploring it himself or by having a teacher present it from a textbook or by exploring a problem from contemporary times and going back into history ..."

"You say this is getting at it another way," Dr. Snorf continued. "But you can miss a huge amount of the basic course ..."

Lyon said this depends upon how the course is approached, and that studies have shown students retain very little when they learn lots of facts for tests and retests.

Because this was an informational discussion only, no board action was taken or expected.

'Man of La Mancha' reopens Friday night

"Man of La Mancha," the Broadway success which was the smash hit of the Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula season, will re-open Friday night for a limited run of 25 performances at the Circle Theatre, Carmel.

The production, which was hailed by reviewers and theatre-goers, is under the direction of Mike Keller. During its run this past season, the show played to sell-out houses for virtually all its performances.

Returning in the roles they created in the first production are: Bob Amos as Don Quixote; Joyce Malikoff as Aldonza; Dick Bird as Sancho; Roy Baxter as the Governor; Richard Mannheim as The Duke; Stephen Keener as The Padre; Larry Venz as Juan; Richard Conklin as The Guitarist; Barbara Conklin as Fermina; Jerry Van Steenberg as the Captain of the Inquisition; and Don Porter, who played Jose in the February production will take over the role of Sancho on June 30 for the remainder of the run.

New to the cast is Gloria Barron as Maria; Terrence Wadsworth as Pedro; Bob Barron as The Barber. Appearing on stage for the first time at the Circle Theatre are: Kevin Skiles as Jose; Mark Hagensick and George Ennis as the Inquisition Guards; Steve Thorngate as Tenorio; Frank Pucillo as Anselmo;

Steve Thues as Esteban; and Ann Urice as Antonia.

Musical director and pianist is Emma Sue Amos, with guitar music supplied by Richard Conklin, Glenn V. DeGruy, Eileen Young and Stuart Campbell. John King on bass and Liz Todd's flute complete the musical ensemble.

Production assistant is Cappy McLeod.

The show will run through July 24, with performances starting at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday - Saturday and at 7:30 p.m. on Sundays. Reservations may be made by calling the theatre box office at 624-2669 or writing to Box AL, Carmel, 93921.

NOW OPEN! The Pride of Merrie Ol' England

On a recent drive through Big Sur, I was reminded of "Bronte Country"—the skies were leaden, the hills were purple, somber; rain had begun to fall—everything seemed to combine to give an effect of grimness. Of course it was atmosphere, rather than landscape, that made me think I was taking part in a Charlotte or Emily novel, reminded me of that bleak town bitten out of the moorland, the old parsonage tucked away among the crowding tombstones, and just beyond the wall, the moor, monotonous yet majestic! The scene that called to the two sisters' hearts, always, when they were far away.

It was a particularly depressing drive, and I was very happy to come in out of the rain, join my friends in the warm, cheerful atmosphere of The Pub, and partake of a satisfying meal around the charming circular fireplace. Alone or with friends, you will always feel welcome.

See you soon.

Studio Theatre's new musical 'How to Succeed' succeeds brilliantly

A bright and sparkling musical opened at the Studio Theatre in Carmel last weekend, and will surely lighten the local summer theatre scene during the next six weeks.

A scintillating cast - headed by Robert D. Jones, Bill Stone and Claudia Landon - make "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" the latest in a string of successes directed by Bill Asp.

As J. Pierpont Finch, who quickly rises from an ex-window washer to chairman of the board of the World Wide Wicket Company, Bob Jones is nothing short of spectacular. His role calls for an insouciant self-confidence that sweeps everyone and every obstacle aside, and this he accomplishes beguiling adeptness.

His entirely professional performance carries the rest of the cast along and captures the effervescence of a musical comedy that enjoyed a long run on Broadway.

Bill Stone plays J.B. Biggley, president of the "company", a bumbling executive who easily falls prey to the charm and contrived trickery which Finch so effortlessly projects.

Claudia Landon as Rosemary is the secretary who sees something extra special in Finch from the outset, and relentlessly boosts and pursues him, accomplishing both with a radiant charm that is beautiful to behold.

Then there is Sherry Steffens who is nothing short of smashing as Hedy Larue. She wanders in and out of the action, first as Biggley's paramour, later as a decorative secretary who moves on to much bigger conquests.

Special mention is also due Michael Byrne who makes a huge success of his role as Frump, the ne'er do well nephew of the president. Others in the large cast all contribute to the fast-moving action and include Scott Wood, Buz Childers, Pete Hanson, Betty Hughes, John Sullivan, Elaine O'Connell, Mark Tompson, J.C. Hale, Karen Bevelander, Judy Lozen, Susan Claypool and Cheryl Ann Cox.

Encomiums are also due Gregory Granoff, the talented young man who, though he is just fresh out of Carmel High School, provides the musical direction and difficult piano accompaniment.

Frank Loesser's musical score is a complex one, and a challenging one even for professionals. The Studio cast handled it beautifully, and especially so in such numbers as Coffee Break, I Believe in You, and Grand Old Ivy.

The staging presented unique demands too, and the quick changes of scene all came off splendidly.

Bill Asp, who put it all together, has scored another remarkable success, coming as it does on the heels of Plaza Suite, which set all kinds of Studio Theatre records.

Special credit is also due for the attractive costumes designed by Judy Evans, and the unusual sets and lighting by Bob Evans, jr.

All in all it is a most delightful evening of entertainment, and the large crowd on hand Sunday evening, when this reviewer attended, was spontaneously enthusiastic. The show plays each evening except Mondays and Tuesdays and includes dinner for those who appreciate this enjoyable combination. And the food is always excellent. GMD

Gives social security increase to OLAF

Edna Rankin McKinnon of Hacienda Carmel is "77½" years old and although she moved here from the beautiful country that is Montana four years ago, she says, "There is nothing more beautiful in the world, in my opinion, than the Carmel Valley."

Having this opinion, it is perhaps not surprising that the Pine Cone received the following letter from Mrs. McKinnon:

"Many of us who live in the Monterey Peninsula area received an increase in our Social Security checks this month.

"How helpful it would be if all of us who can manage without it would pledge the amount of that increase to OLAF (Odello Land Acquisition Fund) for a year or more.

"Those interested can write or telephone to OLAF - P.O. Box 3844, Carmel 93921, or 624-2820 and ask for a pledge statement and they will advise you when payments should begin."

Mrs. McKinnon told the Pine Cone that when she suddenly received an increase in her Social Security check "it occurred to me that I had already made a pledge to OLAF, which seems to me to be very important, and that here is a way for people to give."

While the increase might be a way for other people to give, it is, for Mrs. McKinnon, a way "for me to give more."

"The thing is, a lot of us who live on fixed incomes don't have a lot on which to live. But we can sacrifice a little and a little can help a great deal."

Mrs. McKinnon thinks OLAF "is a program aimed at saving the environment in a great way."

CLINT EASTWOOD, host for the annual Celebrity Tennis Tournament held at Pebble Beach over the July 4th weekend, receives a $1,000 original oil painting from Carmel artist Danny Garcia, which will be sold to benefit the Behavioral Sciences Institute. The painting is on display at Garcia's Gallery, Sixth and Dolores.

Former champs return for this year's Clint Eastwood

Reigning men's singles champion, Dabney Coleman and 1969 title holder, Jim "Lefty" Brown, have accepted invitations to play in this year's Clint Eastwood Invitational Celebrity Tennis at Pebble Beach.

Coleman learned his tennis at Virginia Military Institute and was ranked sixth nationally as a Junior Doubles player. Last year he defeated Beach and Tennis Club member Don Bering 10-6 for the Eastwood championship.

"Lefty" Brown, who beat Club men's singles title holder Ken Green for the 1969 championship, was a varsity net man at Texas State University before going into films.

Also back for the '71 Eastwood is Wendel Niles, Jr., who lost in the semi-finals to Coleman after eliminating Brown in the quarter finals. Niles, now a television producer, was an all 'round athlete at Southern Cal, lettering in football. While a Trojan he handled the place-kicking.

Coleman, considered the best tennis player in Hollywood, is currently starring in "Bright Promise," a day time TV series, and has been featured in a number of films, including the highly acclaimed "Downhill Racer".

A very serious player, he was miffed at the crowd last year because of its obvious preference for Bering, "the hometown boy." His comment of "Smile" to the gallery ranked with ex Cleveland footballer Jim

Brown's retort to a gallerite of "Shoot man, I'm not about to lose any tennis game to a footballer," as the tournament's choice bon mots. (Brown was talking about his singles victory over former San Francisco linebacker Matt Hazeltine; a triumph that was deemed an upset as Hazeltine was supposedly the more experienced tennis player.)

"Lefty" Brown was sans his black weight belt for the first time last year. However, the one-time star of the Rin Tin Tin series did manage to catch the crowd's eye with a small American Flag over his shirt pocket.

This year's Eastwood will feature some 64 players in men's singles and doubles, women's doubles and mixed doubles. In addition to tournament play, club professional Don Hamilton is planning a series of exhibition matches featuring such ranked players as Whitney Reed, Barry Mackay, Tom Brown, and Jack Frost.

There's a report that Hamilton will play too if he can lure Pancho Segura up from the Southland.

Tickets for the July 3-4-5 matches can be ordered by calling the Pebble Beach tennis courts 408-624-0106 or by writing the Tournament's beneficiary: Behavioral Sciences Institute of Monterey, 969 Pacific Street, Monterey, Ca. 93940.

Wynn Bullock to autograph his new book at Eikon Gallery Saturday

Noted photographer Wynn Bullock will be at the Eikon Gallery at McKay's, 470 Alvarado, downtown Monterey, to autograph his new photographic book on Saturday, June 19, 2 to 5:30 p.m.

The book, simply called "Wynn Bullock", documents each of the four stages of his creative career.

The text of the book is written by Wynn's daughter, Barbara Bullock, augmented by notes from the author.

Bullock has continued to change and grow in his creative work and this evolution is shown pictorially and philosophically in the book.

The autograph party at the Eikon Gallery will mark the international debut of the book, which is being published by Scrimshaw Press. The 152-page volume carries a price tag of $25.

Bullock, a member of the Friends of Photography, lived and worked in the Carmel area for many years, and now makes his home in Monterey. Born in Chicago in 1902, he studied at Columbia University, West Virginia University and Los Angeles Art Center School. He has taught at San Francisco State College, San Francisco College, and most recently at the Institute of Design, Chicago.

Among the awards that have been showered on Bullock for his outstanding work as the Highest National Award of the Professional Photographers of Northern California for "National Recognition for his Contributions to Professional Photography as a Fine Art in 1960."

By popular vote of 64,844 viewers at Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. the New York City Museum of Modern Art's exhibition, "The Family of Man" voted Bullock's photograph "Let There Be Light" the outstanding favorite photograph of the exhibit. He is represented in leading Annuals of world's best photography in the United States, England, Germany and Japan 27 times including honor portfolios for the years 1956, 1959 and 1965.

The German magazine International Photo Technik said of Bullock in 1961:

"The California photographer Wynn Bullock, whose photographs of unspoiled nature are among the most impressive landscapes of our time ... The quiet expressive power of contrast which he achieves through the juxtaposition of man and nature stimulates the beholder to reflect on things which lie in the sphere of philosophic thought and extend to cosmic notions. The peculiar visual impact and the profound and almost mystical character of these photographs has met with wide response ... his photographs have been exhibited all over the world and have been acquired by leading museums."

Critic Alfred Frankenstein, writing in the San Francisco Chronicle in 1956 had this to say about Bullock's exhibit at the de Young Museum:

"The photographic individualist at the de Young is Wynn Bullock of Monterey, who is a technical virtuoso of the most brilliant kind. Seldom, if ever, has one seen so broad a range of tone in photographic black and white or so rich a spectrum of photographic textures as those which Bullock commands."

Perhaps the most stirring tribute of all, though came from writer Henry Miller in 1955:

"Wynn Bullock has revealed the soul of the Big Sur in black and white as only the poet can. And who has revealed the humility of my own home to me with his magic eye. Who will, God willing, reveal more wonders, more marvels to all he comes in contact with, because possessed of the Male voices sought for choral society

The Monterey Peninsula Choral Society, under the direction of Haymo Taeuber, completed its 1970-71 season with a stirring performance of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra at Sunset Auditorium on May 17.

For the coming season, Maestro Taeuber has planned an interesting and exciting program, and the 100-member chorus will be rehearsing on a summer schedule of sectional groups with a full rehearsal every third week. The group will study works by Mozart, Bach, Brahms, Stravinsky, Lou Harrison and Carl Orff for next season's performance with the Symphony Chamber Orchestra and the full symphony orchestra.

Singers interested in joining the choral society may call Joseph Wythe, 375-7931, or the symphony office-624-4125. Especially needed are tenors and basses because many members are service men who are transferred to other areas after their studies here are completed. This means a constant turn-over in the male voice sections, but members of the military services are welcome to participate while they are here.

There's another side to the Forest Theatre question

By FRANK RILEY

ALL YOUR INTERESTING and perceptive letters about the Forest Theatre are being carefully collected and their suggestions are being tabulated. It is interesting to note that most letters deal with only one phase of the two-part dilemma which the Theatre in its present condition presents. Almost without exception, the letters address themselves to the question, "Should the Forest Theatre be restored to prime condition?"

It should be kept in mind that this is not the only question to be considered. Even more important is this: If restored, how should the Forest Theatre be operated? This is the aspect of the matter to which no letters have made reference.

It is obvious that a theatre structure is not difficult to obtain -- all it takes is money. Magnificent structures can be built with no other requirement than that the funds be provided. But to what purpose is the structure to be put? Commercial operation? Amateur productions? Entertainment for the public at municipal expense? Donation of facilities for free use by those who want it? Rental of facilities to those who apply? Municipal operation with admission charges to cover costs?

It would appear that there has been no policy in this regard in the past except for the plan of presenting ten free Sunday afternoon programs in July and August each summer.

xxx

THE TEN PROGRAMS for this summer have been arranged. They will go on as scheduled at the Forest Theatre. The ten performances will be of high merit, varied interest, and, as in the past, will be open to the public without charge. Some of the seating will not be in very good repair; some of the equipment will look a bit shabby; but the season will go on. However, the long range solution remains to be resolved. Your comments in your letters, especially in regard as to how the Theatre might best be operated, will be welcomed by the Cultural Commission and will be of real assistance in formulating plans and recommendations. Let us hear from you.

But, also save the Summer Sundays for the ten free Forest Theatre programs beginning on July 4th when the Monterey Peninsula Chapter Chorus of the SPEBSQSA with the Tonsorial Parlor Music Association open our 1971 series.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch (Sunset, that is) bridge games every Tuesday noon -- Patio Picnic every Wednesday noon.

HOW'S THE MARKET?

In a word -- sensational! Carmel Valley homes have seldom enjoyed a finer market.

If you are considering selling we would love to sit down and learn your desires. We will help you evaluate your property and counsel you on price. Our suggestion will be based on recent sales of dozens of other properties and replacement cost. You will benefit from one of the most extensive Real Estate advertising programs on the Monterey Peninsula -- which includes our "La Prensa" news letter. "La Prensa" is mailed to clients throughout the country.

The details of your escrow will be processed quickly and efficiently.

PORTER-MARQUARD REALTY -- where service has been a tradition for over 44 years.

SHOP HOPPING

Fun gifts to give ... to receive! These clever hand painted hang-up patio chimes are titled Great Lovers ... sketched are Adam, Neptune, and Cyrano de Bergerac ... specially priced for Father's Day $1.50 each. A wild selection of mugs ... moustache mugs, eat coffee mugs and beer mugs ... $2.50 and $3.00. These are new at TROY'S GIFT SHOP ... in Carmel Valley Village (near the Post Office). Open every day from 10 til 6. Phone 659-4517.

FATHER'S DAY!

Don't forget ... this Sunday is a very special day! At Steinmetz Pharmacy you'll find all sorts of gifts sure to please Dad. Fine leather goods, from wallets to shave kits ... favorite toiletries such as Pub Cologne $3.75 (reg. $8.00) and Pub Brisk After-Shave $3.00 (reg. $6.50). Also a complete line of Hallmark cards. Gift wrap, gifts wrapped for mailing. Convenient Post Office sub-station too at ... STEINMETZ PHARMACY ... Mid Valley Shopping Center. Phone 624-5308.

The one and only Weber kettle, the original outdoor covered cooker ... designed to make Dad a chef instead of a firefighter. Combine the economy of an oven with the zest of a barbecue. Entire meal may be prepared on the Weber. Made of heavy duty steel in exciting and pleasing permanent colors. Many to choose from. (Sketched - the 49'er.) From $36.95. HOLMAN'S, Pacific Grove. Parking lot level. Phone 372-7131. Open Sundays 12 to 5.

Here's the most elegant steel tape measure ever made. Gleaming chrome, upholstered in black cowhide. Spring-loaded 10 foot rule. Not just feet and inches, but meters and centimeters too. Hairline reading window. All useful! It's a square. It's a level, with built-in gauge. Retractable point to scribe lines, draw circles. Dad would love it! You'll find it at ADAM FOX in Carmel, San Carlos Street between Ocean Avenue & 7th. Phone 624-5244.

Love at first bite ... how else to describe the luscious pies that await your pleasure at The Pie Factory. Light, flaky pastries ... plump fruit and berry, creamy smooth cream, and sour cream fillings ... unbelievable meringues. The spectacular strawberry pie shown is made with fresh berries, ringed with whipped cream. Order dad's favorite to take home for Father's Day. THE PIE FACTORY, Del Monte Center, Monterey. Phone 372-9337. Open EVERY day ... serving pie, sandwiches, pot pies, soups and salads.

These nifty tie valets by Talbott make great gifts...the striped valet sketched is only one of many patterns or solids to choose from...silks $8.75, cottons $5.75. As an added gesture why not include a traditional Andover ascot (shown), English handblocked or hand screened silk print...$7.50 to $9.50. Bib ascots of silk foulard $8.50. Hand wrapped gift boxes. Only at TALBOTT CARMEL on Ocean Avenue near Monte Verde. Phone 624-1747. Open Sundays 10 to 5.

This lovely Colonial grandmother clock and dainty bedside alarm (both sketched) can only suggest the wide variety of antique to found at CASTLE IN CARMEL. By Wuersch, the grandmother clock stands 5 feet, has Westminster chimes ... $210. The exquisite little alarm clock by Hamilton is $32 ... beautiful for gift giving. Other clocks priced from $25 to $250. CASTLE IN CARMEL on Dolores between Ocean & 7th. Open 7 days 9:30 to 5:30. Phone 624-5733.

A most distinctive gift for dad ... handsome solid brass belt buckles, reproductions of the original Wells Fargo buckles that were worn as badges of authority by their agents. $25.00 each including saddle leather belt. Also special orders in sterling silver and 14K gold. Made expressly, in limited number, for the JOHN GRISSIM SHOP, where you may see the entire collection. Located in the Pine Inn on Ocean Avenue, Carmel. Phone 624-1272.

Old-fashioned candies that bring back memories. They're all here ... toffees, jelly beans, licorice, peppermints, taffy ... Rows of inviting apothecary jars ... choose a few pennies worth or as much as you like ... a part of the charm and friendliness you'll find at CARMEL CANDIES. And if you haven't yet tried their delicious chocolates you've been missing out! CARMEL CANDIES is in the Doud Arcade on Ocean Avenue, Carmel. Phone 624-3867. Open Sundays.
